

Don lives with Cindy, his wife of over 40 years, in Steamboat Springs, Colorado, and is principal of the Slavik Law Firm, LLC, working with clients and firms around the country on products liability cases, class actions, antitrust, and other complex litigation. He was Senior Counsel to Robinson Calcagnie, Inc. of Newport Beach, California, from January 2011 through May 2015 and is still Of Counsel to the firm. Prior to that he was a Senior Partner at the Milwaukee, Wisconsin, firm of Habush, Habush & Rottier, S.C. where he practiced for thirty years. He is licensed to practice law in the states of Colorado, Texas, Washington, and Wisconsin, as well as in Federal Courts in those and other states, and in the Fifth and Sixth Federal Circuit Courts of Appeal. He has been admitted pro hac vice in more than twenty-five other states. He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin with a B.S. with honors in Nuclear Engineering and a J.D. He was a licensed Professional Engineer (Ret.) in Wisconsin for thirty years and has held a private pilot's license with an instrument rating for most of his career.

Don concentrates his practice in the areas of products liability, aviation accidents, consumer class actions, and other complex litigation around the United States and occasionally in foreign countries. Don has particular expertise in motor vehicle software and autonomous vehicle systems. He's made multiple presentations at the Association Unmanned Vehicle Systems International symposium since 2017 and participated in one of their working groups. He's spoken on the subject of autonomous and semi-autonomous vehicles to a variety of legal organizations.
