

Professor Damian Mohan

Damian is Associate Clinical Professor in Forensic Psychiatry in Trinity College Dublin. He is a TCD medical graduate. He trained in St. Patrick's University Hospital Dublin, followed by the University of Southampton and the Institute of Psychiatry in London. Damian then worked as a consultant in Broadmoor Hospital, West London NHS, before returning to Dublin in 2001. He was a consultant psychiatrist with the National Forensic Mental Health Service (NFMHS) until 2022. Since retiring from the HSE, Damian is the medical lead on the Clinical Management System (CMS) team, which is overseeing the digital transformative journey and introduction of electronic patient record (EPR) to the National Forensic Mental Health Services (NFMHS). In addition to managing a busy medicolegal practice, Damian is a Governor on the Board of St. Patrick's University Hospital. He lectures on the Advanced Diploma in Medical Law in the Kings Inns.
