

Dr. Nadia Webb

Was the former head of the American Board of Pediatric Neuropsychologists and is a medical psychologist in Louisiana. She has decades of experience in diagnosing and treating brain injuries in adults and children.

Her education includes:

Alliant University — Post-Doctoral Master of Science, Clinical Psychopharmacology, 2010.

Rutgers University — Doctorate in Clinical Psychology (APA approved program), 1998.

Rutgers University — Master of Arts in Clinical Psychology, 1997.

University of Arizona Health Sciences Center, Internship, Neuropsychology and Medical Psychology, 1997-1998.

California Graduate School of Psychology — One year, family therapy intensive, 1992.

New College of California — Master of Arts in Clinical Psychology (family therapy focus), 1991.

University of California at Berkeley — Bachelor of Arts in Humanities, with Honors, 1989.